A Horrible Reminiscence. The recent massacre by Tom Woodfolk, in deorgia, of nine persons, all near relatives but one, it order to secure possession of his father's estate, recalls a case of almost equal atrocity committed by Anton Probst, in the outskirts of Philadelphia. The latter, however, was not a relative of the eight victims that were murdered for the purpose of robbery. The butchery took place on Saturday, the 7th of April, 1866, on the farm of Christopher Dearing, on Jones' lane, about a mile below the built up portion of Philadelphia. The victims were Mr. Dearing, his wife Julia and their four children-John, eight years of age, Thomas six, Annie four, and baby Emily but fourteen months old. Besides these, Miss Elizabeth Dolan, of Burlington, New Jersey, a visitor, and Corne-lius Carey, a boy employed on the farm, were also killed. All the murdered ones from their nearest neighbors, and were not missed until the Wednesday after the mur-der, when the house was found to have been ransacked, and after a long search the bodies of the Dearings and Miss Dolan were discovered in the barn. The whole police force was put to work to search for the mur-derer, but no suspicion was directed toward any one, Probat having effectually silenced all who could throw any light on the mys-tery. On Thursday evening, the day following the discovery of the murder, the policemen arrested a man who was acting sus piciously in the neighborhood of 23d and Market streets, and on taking him to the Sixth district station house the pocket books of Mr. Dearing and Miss Dolan were found in his possession. It was Anton Probst, who was employed by Mr. Dearing at the time of the murder. He was indicted by the grand jury and his trial was begun April 25, which resulted in a verdict of murder in the first degree being rendered murder in the first degree being rendered April 28. He was sentenced to be hanged on May 1 by Judge Allison, and was executed June 8, 1868, in the yard of the county prison. Probet made a full confession of his crime after he had been convicted and sentenced, in which he gave all the ghastly details, as well as of his carousals with the money of his victims before his arrest. He was a hardened wretch, but professed repentance before his death, Justice was prompt in its infliction of punishment in

A Plea for a Monument.

At a meeting of Pickett's Division Association in June last it was decided to place a monument to the memory of the dead of Pickett's division on Gettysburg Hill, in Hollywood, Richmond, Va., and the collecting committee, of which Capt. H. B. Taliaferro is chairman, was requested to continue the work with renewed energy. So far there has been secured $270. Only a few of the division have contributed. It is the desire and intention, if funds sufficient can be raised, to erect the monument next October, during the holding of the Virginia Agricultural Fair. The corner stone of the Lee monument will be laid at that time. The committee appointed to design a suit-A full supply of NORTHERN ICE, of superior quality, constantly on hand and for sale wholesale and retail on the most favorable terms.

Orders left with our drivers, at our office, or by lackness will receive a recorn attention. tributed will do so at once. It will take six weeks to complete the monument; therefore we should be up and at work. Let us give according to our means. Comrades, this is a work of love and respect to the dead heroes, some of whom fell in that magnificent charge on Gettysburg heights, which is not surpassed by that of Napoleon's Old Guard at Waterloo or Frederick at Kolin. Some of you have lately witnessed the dedication of monuments at Gettysburg to the memory of those who opposed us. It is not our privilege to put ours there as was contemplated, but we can put it in our dear old mother State, Virginia, and over the bones of our comrades which have been transplanted from where they fell to Holly-wood. The survivors of A. P. Hill's divi-3,303,592 17 sion are moving in the right direction. God speed them in their noble undertaking. Let us not be behind them, but lead the charge. It has been months since this movement was first commenced, and should have been finished ere this. Remember July 3, 1863. Remember General Lee said of you, "They did al! men could do." Even an admiring enemy—Swinton, the historian—says: "Whatsoever valor could do to wrest victothe troops of Pickett had done." Who will not esteem it an honor as well as a privilege to assist in erecting to their memory a shaft which, pointing to the heavens, says their reward is there? Your comrade,

J. V. BIDGOOD. Treasurer Pickett's Division Ass'n. Contributions for the above purpose can be sent to Col. Arthur Herbert, in this city.
